

The countdown to COP26 has begun! In two months, the UK will host the 26th UN Climate Change Conference of the Parties (COP26) in Glasgow. This will be the next big Climate Change conference after Paris (COP21), and with the US returning to the table it has high expectations.

In coordination between the G7 and the G20, chaired by the UK and Italy, global coordination is taking place in reshaping the rules of the game, which will redraw the industries and restore a new balance in global finance.

Please join us

at our Tea with Reason:

Climate Change: Race to zero

21 September, 9-11am, Hotel Slon, Ljubljana and online

The transition to a net zero, resilient and environmentally-sustainable global economy will require unprecedented changes to global economies. Business will need to integrate climate into every decision.

Programme:

9:00-9:30 Arrival & networking

9:30-9:45 Keynote Speech - COP26

- Tiffany Sadler, British Ambassador to Slovenia

9:45-9:55 Climate Bonds

- Prashant Vaze, Senior Policy Fellow, Climate Bonds Initiative

9:55-10:45 Business Panel

- John Denhof, CEO and President of the Nova KBM Management Board
- dr. Robert Golob, President of the Management Board at Gen-I
- Sibil Svilan, CEO of SID bank
- Stanislava Zadavec Capriolo, CEO of Slovenian Bank Association

The event will be moderated by Jurij Giacomelli, founder of the Circular Business Academy and the president of the Italian-Slovenian Forum.

Attendance (live or online) is free of charge, however registration is obligatory. If you decide to attend the event in person, please make sure to comply with the PCT rule.

Register here to attend the event in person

Register here to watch the event online

Organised by:

Partners:

